

The Duke of Edinburgh Hotel

Shane Cuskelly - booking bands at The Duke of Edinburgh Hotel

“A lot of the Māori boys who did security at The Duke were mostly cool, although we did have a few hardcore clash nights, particularly when a band I booked from the ACT played called White Lightning. I thought they were punk/ska and it turned out they were Nazi Fascists! Someone got glassed and the bouncers flew in. It wasn't pretty! The reason I got the gig is because I took the door and paid the bands in a 3-way split and they provided the PA. I also I provided Michael Fewings as the sound engineer. “

Source: Facebook / Punk Journey