

The Grosvenor Hotel

Peter C. Kohn - The Grosvenor Hotel

"I went to the Grosvenor Tuesday night gigs between June and September/November 1986. One Tuesday there was a 'Punk Pyjama Party' where if you wore your PJ's you got in for free. A Lot of punks slept in their clothes, so it was hard to tell!!"

Laurence Aboukhater - The Grosvenor Hotel

"I remember Tuesday nights at The Grosvenor well. I played with The Kaotics. The publican there was a lecherous man called Bill who was the son of a prominent Judge. He used to proposition young punk boys in exchange for coke or money. None of them ever took up the offer. Other than that, it was a lot of fun."

Rick Ferrara - The Grosvenor Hotel

"I used to book the Wednesday nights for 'The Loco Beach Club'. We put on some punk bands, but we were more eclectic in our selection of bands."

Source: Facebook / Punk Journey